Rotated Text Fixture

The paragraph below is set sideways. A reader holding the page upright sees it running from bottom to top, the way a wide table is often printed in a report.

This sideways paragraph describes an invented survey of lighthouse keepers. Each keeper kept a ledger of passing ships, and the ledgers were compared at the end of the season to see which harbour had been busiest overall.